

Sorry Don't Matter

Jason Michael Carroll

Girl, I hate me for how I hurt you
'Cause that ain't no way to love a woman
I used up your heart and all your forgiveness
I tore you apart and now you're down

To where my apologies, are just empty words
And my tears are just salt and water
Where down on my knees, that's just bones on boards
Yeah, I'm very sorry, don't matter anymore

There was a time when I was the one
That you trusted unconditionally
Now look at you, lookin' at me
With that blank stare that only believes

Then my apologies are just empty words
And my tears are just salt and water
Where down on my knees, that's just bones on boards
Yeah, I'm where sorry don't matter anymore

Girl, I wish I could tell you
How sorry I really am
But I just can't, 'cause I chose to make

My apologies, just empty words
And my tears, just salt and water
Where down on my knees, that's just bones on boards
I'm where sorry, don't matter
I'm where sorry, just don't matter
I'm where sorry, don't matter anymore.
