

Hopeful Heart

Jason Walker

Like a sailor with his boat capsizing
Holding on as the tide is rising
Oh, where do we go from here?
It's like the moment when you're realizing
All this shock to the heart like lightning
Oh, where do we go from here?

Do you know how far I would run?
There's no fear, my dear, next to you

Don't let it fall to pieces
I don't wanna know what life is
Without the sound of your love
Moving through me now
And don't let that be a reason
For these walls to fall apart
Here beats my hopeful heart for you, for you

Deep are the roots that feed the tree
And in the sparks of memories
Oh, where do we go from here?
We chased time, oh as it moved so swiftly
Like a fistful of sand and our hands are empty
Promise you won't let go

Don't let it fall to pieces
I don't wanna know what life is
Without the sound of your love
Moving through me now
And don't let that be a reason
For these walls to fall apart
Here beats my hopeful heart for you

You're the land in my heart that I'm pulled to You're light in the dark that I'm tied to
Where you stop I begin
And you're the power, you're the fire that feeds me
You're the force in the flame beneath me
Where you stop I begin

Don't let it fall to pieces
I don't wanna know what life is
Without the sound of your love
Moving through me now
And don't let that be a reason
For these walls to fall apart
Here beats my hopeful heart for you

Here beats my hopeful heart for you
