When I ramble down
In my paltry crown
I hear that things will change
But nothing will change

And you tumble down
In your tattered gown
They say things will change
But nothing will change

Through the loss, the pain
Oh the love you'll gain
Through the years of strain
Oh the life to gain
Through the loss, the pain
Oh the life

You can drink your wine From your earthly vines They say things will change But nothing will change

Through the loss, the pain
Oh the love you'll gain
Through the years of strain
Oh the life to gain
Through the loss, the pain
Oh the life

Through the loss, the pain
Oh the love you'll gain
Through the years of strain
Oh the life to gain

Through the loss, the pain Oh the love you'll gain Through the years of strain Oh the life