```
What friends are for
What friends are for
What friends are for
What
friends are for
What friends are for
What friends are
for Promises, promises
Old, tired, worn out, second hand
sentances
One thing, with you is certain You're a really sad person sad Dissapointed a few people
When friendship reared its ugly head
Dissapointed a few people
Well, isn't that what friends are for?
(What friends are for)
What friends are for (What friends are for)
What
are friends for?
You, you're just a really sad person
Who won't, you
won't listen to anyone
No not you
With those half moon eyelids babbling on, your usless defenses
So sad Dissapointed a few people
When friendship reared its ugly head Dissapointed a few
people
Well isn't that what friends are for (What friends are for) friends are for (What friends are for)
What are friends for?
This
erratic haphazard, fluttering
This to-ing and fro-ing
Like a confused
The collision, illusion
And it's all ad infinitum You're a really sad person
```

You're really so sad

Dissapointed a few people
When
friendship reared its ugly head Dissapionted a few people Well isn't that
what friends are for (What friends are for)
What friends are for)
What are friends for?

Fools and horses
Running
their courses
And brow beaten down
Like dust on the ground
You cheat
easily
Like sweet charity
And all of the bastards
The world
despises
In newer disguises
You cheat easily
Like all charity

Fools and horses (What friends are for) Running their courses (What friends are for) And brow beaten down (What friends are for) Like dust on the ground (What friends are for) You cheat easily (What friends are for) Like sweet charity (What friends are for) And all of the bastards (What friends are for) The world despises (What friends are for) In newer disguises (What friends are for) You cheat easily (What friends are for) Like all charity (What friends are for)