

Body in Motion

John Mark McMillan

Every rock you ever thrown
Has come back down on you
And the stone wind
And the words that you said are gonna haunt you
You're gonna have to own them

A body, a body that's in motion
Will remain in motion
Unless acted upon

White like ghosts
Telling these thoughts you hold over someone else
White like bones
The very same ones you're going to reckon with yourself

White like ghosts
Telling these thoughts you hold over someone else
White like bones
The very same ones you're going to reckon with yourself

There is an equal reaction
For every action
Opposite in kind
So if hell cannot conquer hell
The Devil cannot drive out himself
You're telling me you want to live by the sword

White like ghosts
Telling these thoughts you hold over someone else
White like bones
The very same ones you're going to reckon with yourself

White like ghosts
Telling these thoughts you hold over someone else
White like bones
The very same ones you're going to reckon with yourself

A body, a body that's in motion
Will remain in motion
A body, a body that's in motion
Will remain in motion
A body, a body that's in motion
Will remain in motion
A body, a body that's in motion
Will remain in motion

White like ghosts
Telling these thoughts you hold over someone else
White like bones
The very same ones you're going to reckon with yourself

White like ghosts
Telling these thoughts you hold over someone else
White like bones
