

Boomerang Café

John Williamson

At the Boomerang Cafe where I first met you
With lipstick on your lips and vinegar on your chips
At the Boomerang Cafe where I sat down beside you
Do you remember my darling

You thought I was a fool as I rolled a cigarette
You thought I was too old but I bet you don't forget
The Boomerang Cafe
Where I first met you
Do you remember my darling

Wasn't long ago, was just the other day
You played with the sugar and I didn't know what to say
Or was it just a daydream that I'll never run again
In memories with you

Instrumental passage (Saxaphone)

At the Boomerang Cafe all I could see
Was your brown eyes
Which would change the world for me
And the Boomerang Cafe changed the world for you
Do you remember my darling

I recall it was raining
The heavens tore apart
Or was it just the lightning and thunder in my heart
At the Boomerang Cafe
Where I first met you
Do you remember my darling

Instrumental (Saxaphone) till end
