

Blush

Josh Abbott Band

Both a bottle and a canvas with the touch of your hand
Beauty gives way to the pleasure of this man
The reflection in the mirror reveals my favorite scene
When your cheeks start to give that's when I see

You blush, but don't rush
No, I could look at you like this for days
It's such a lovely touch
And you wear it well as if you cant tell everytime I see you
I get such a crush when you blush

There's no need to be embarrassed when I say you look lovely
'Cause is that word could truly describe the angel in my dreams
So charming and rosy baby, you em body life and grace
I'd compliment you through the night, you say that you may

Blush, so don't rush
No I could look at you like this for days
And it's such a lovely touch
And you wear it well as if you cant tell everytime I see you
I get such a crush, when you blush

As we lay here on this pillow, I can't look away
Why would I knowing I have only gotta wait

To see you blush, so don't rush
I could look at you like this for days and days
It's such a lovely touch
And you wear it well as if you cant tell everytime I see you
I get such a crush, when you blush

Crush when you blush, oh, when you blush
