

Catching Fire

Josh Abbott Band

My embers are starting to glow again
Flickering with the breath of a new wind
Buried in the ashes parts of me dead and gone
There's beauty and hope in the Sunday morning dawn

I'm on the road to resurrection
My angels finally found me
You can almost feel the light
When you're in the darkness drowning
And love is always, always that spark
And my heart
Is catching fire, catching fire, catching fire again
Catching fire, catching fire, catching fire again

Those mistakes I'm still not over
Battles with faith and getting older
Relentless midnight demons chase me with my sins
Forgiveness is the strength that's letting me stand up to them

I'm on the road to resurrection
My angels finally found me
You can almost feel the light
When you're in the darkness drowning
And love is always, always that spark
And my heart
Is catching fire, catching fire, catching fire again
Catching fire, catching fire, catching fire again

Oh we all need second chances, no matter who we are
And there's nothing like the feeling, like the feeling and your heart
Is catching fire, catching fire, catching fire again
Catching fire, catching fire, catching fire again
Catching fire, catching fire, catching fire again
Catching fire, catching fire, catching fire again