

You're Only Dreaming

Jughead's Revenge

You think you're smart and take no blame
You're only dreaming
So smug you only worship fame
I'm not believing
You could not love yourself much more
When I was young I saw the games that people played
And I thought that all those things would Change by age fifteen
But now they've stayed
Resemblance so unfaded
I'm not in sixth grade anymore
You tried for a better life
Never thought about what was right
It doesn't matter how many you use
In a world that's surrounded by fools
You left a lot when being one of them
Would be cool
I wish you all the best and don't forget
To say that you knew me when
You shoot yourself in the foot
Or shove it in your mouth again
Good luck to your new friends
