In the light, of your eyes, there is nothing I - wouldn't do, to find, the moonlight In the light, we could find, there is not hing I - wouldn't try - to make things right The look in my eye is the calming kind - the lies I used to console you have been refined I could try to find what's in your mind - but the truth just wants to look forward and make things right / Make things right
