Without A Love To Call My Own

June Carter Cash

The tears in my eyes have a home till I cry And then they have a cheek to fall back on The birds in the sky have a mate until it's time to die But I don't have a love to call my own

Lovebirds come in pairs, they have someone who cares And that's one thing that I have never known They heather love within for shelter from the winter wind And me, without a love, not a single solitary love And me, without a love to call my own

Lovebirds come in pairs, they have someone who cares And that's one thing that I have never known They heather love within for shelter from the winter's wind And me, without a love, not a single solitary love And me, without a love to call my own
