

Burning Up

Just Surrender

Could you tell me if you've ever really loved and lost?
And tell me was it worth the cost
When you, you said goodbye?
And if your love was just a game
Then who's the one to take the blame
When you, you can't sleep at night?

'Cause deep inside I'm burning up from you
You've let me down so many times, it's true
You play with fire and you're going to lose
I'm burning up, burning up from the thought of you

From you

You walk the streets at night alone
Then she calls you on the telephone
Because she, she can't sleep at night

And now the night comes to an end
As she grabs me by the hand
She wants to know
Do I want to come home tonight
Her bed is cold
She don't like to be alone

'Cause deep inside I'm burning up from you
You've let me down so many times, it's true
You play with fire and you're going to lose
I'm burning up, burning up from the thought of you

Just take me somewhere far away from here
Dim lit room where I won't show my fears
Don't want you to know the truth
Burning up, burning up from the thought of you

'Cause deep inside I'm burning up from you
You've let me down so many times, it's true
You play with fire and you're going to lose
I'm burning up, burning up from the thought of you

Just take me somewhere far away from here
Dim lit room where I won't show my fears
Don't want you to know the truth
Burning up, burning up from the thought of you

Burning up from the thought of you
Burning up from the thought of you
You play with fire and you're going to lose
I'm burning up, burning up from the thought of you

Burning up from the thought of you
Burning up from the thought of you
Don't want you to know the truth
Burning up, burning up from the thought of you
