

Still Waiting

Kaiser Chiefs

Hearts and stars and people waiting for their train to come.
Get ready though it's not the end.
Park the car and keep it running while they play the song.
You have to get out in the end.

Not enough to be there when you're waiting.
You're still waiting.
I won't let you go, I'll still be at your door.
And I want to tell you right now I've been waiting,
I'm still waiting.
Even though we're not electric anymore.

Collecting leaves in the pockets of your dungarees,
You say you'll put them on display, one day.
I could tell by the way you ring your cycle bell,
What kind of day you've had today.

Not enough to be there when you're waiting.
You're still waiting.
I won't let you go, I'll still be at your door.
And I want to tell you right now I've been waiting,
I'm still waiting,
Even though we're not electric anymore.

Pass, all things pass you by.
Just one chance, just one chance look up at the sky.
A sunrise never lasts, a cloudburst comes so fast.
All things pass.
All things pass you by in time.

Not enough to be there when you're waiting.
You're still waiting.
I won't let you go, I'll still be at your door.
And I want to tell you right now I've been waiting,
I'm still waiting,
Even though we're not electric anymore.
