

Human Beings

Karin Park

When it's hard to take off from the ground,
When you've got no strength to fight,
When you feel you're losing everything,
When you've got no hope inside,

You don't know who you are,
And your indecisions break your heart,
You know I'll come, I'll be running,
To find you wherever you are,

We are human beings looking for a meaning,
You know you are alive as long as you're breathing,
There's no limitations, hold you head with grace and,
Keep on believing what you are dreaming of,

I'll be the one for you to lean against,
I'll get your lungs to open air,
And when your tears are running from your face,
I'll put you out of your despair,

I'll make you show you're strong,
Put you back on the ground where you belong,
It's turning bright and we rise to the sky,
'Cause this is who we are,

We are human beings looking for a meaning,
You know you are alive as long as you're breathing,
There's no limitations, just have a little patience,
You will be given what you are dreaming of,

This is who we are,
This is who we are,

We are human beings looking for a meaning,
You know you are alive as long as you're breathing,
There's no limitations, hold you head with grace and,
Keep on believing what you are dreaming of,

We are human beings, extraordinary feelings,
Sometimes it's hard but keep on believing,
There's no limitations, just have a little patience,
You will be given what you are dreaming of.
