

Castaway

Kate Havnevik

From home here to nowhere
Your heart never planned
To end all emotion
Face down in the sand

[?] beauty
The wings, they rip away
And to little story
You play out for the end

You were cast away
You're a castaway
You're too far out, too far gone
You've been cast away

Tongue tied and broken
You're choking on a pearl
Could nature be joking
To so condense your world

A dream, you have sunk
In a saltwater bed
And we who still love you
Must give you up for dead

You were cast away
You're a castaway
You're too far out, too far gone
You've been cast away

When did you stop loving me?
Where did you leave me?
