Damage Control

Katharine McPhee

For once, I'm finally seeing clear
I left my baggage at the station
My hands are empty but I'm here, here
And all I have's this realization

That all the time I've wasted
Thinking that I could replace this
Is just the long way to what I already knew

The things I've done, you made it clear
That my mistakes won't disappear
I'll make things right from now on, oh
Yeah, I know, I know
I'm on damage control
Damage control

I won't blur between the lines
What I say is what I mean now
And I got words if you got time
And I just hope that you will see now

That all the time I've wasted
Thinking that I could replace this
Is just the long way to what I already knew

The things I've done, you made it clear
That my mistakes won't disappear
I'll make things right from now on, oh
Yeah, I know, I know
I'm on damage control
Damage control

I can't erase all the shame that I placed on myself
That I can't take it away
But I know things will change
So I'll wait for the day that you'll give me your faith one more time

Woah, oh

The things I've done, you made it clear
That my mistakes won't disappear
I'll make things right from now on, oh
Yeah, I know, I know
I'm on damage control
Damage control

Damage control
Damage control