

Everything Must Change

Katharine McPhee

Everything must change
Nothing remains the same
That's the way of time
No one and nothing stays the same

The young becomes the old
And all the mysteries do unfold
That's the way of time
Nothing goes unchanged

There is so little in life you can be sure of
Except the rain comes from the clouds
Sunlight from the sky
And hummingbirds do fly

Everything must change
Nothing remains the same
That's the way of time
No one and nothing remains unchanged

There are so little, so few things in life you can be sure of Except
Rain comes from the clouds
Sunlight off the sky
And hummingbirds do fly

Everything must change
Everything must change
Everything, everything
Everything must change