

Heartwarming

Kathy Mar

I'm falling in love with all of you a little more every day
I'm learning to see a special me in every sweet thing you say
I have come to believe our lives are twined much tighter than we had planned
And love overflows the cup of my heart whenever you touch my hand
And every time I'm tempted to pack up my songs and roam
I look into your eyes and see my home

I've waited for people just like you, I've waited for just this place
But each time before as I opened my door the world slammed it in my face
But all of you made me welcome at the hearth of your gentle hearts
And all of my endings now have become a universe of fresh starts
And every time I'm tempted to pack up my songs and roam
I look into your eyes and see my home

I'm falling in love with all of you a little more every day
I'm learning to see a special me in every sweet thing you say
I have come to believe our lives are twined much tighter than we had planned
And love overflows the cup of my heart whenever you touch my hand
And every time I'm tempted to pack up my songs and roam
I look into your eyes and see my home