Shoulda

Kathy Mar

I should have been poor white trash, But I had too much education. I would have been a long-hair, But it just refused to grow. I could have been president, But I had all the wrong relationships: Loose lips, juicy gossips, people I don't know.

I should have been mother-of-the-year, But I forgot which end to paddle. I would have been a waitress, But I didn't hold my tongue. I could have been a desert guide, But I got bitten by a rattlesnake. Tough break, hope and heartache wasted on the young.

Bridge:Oh, rock me easy. Roll me like a wave. Rock my soul in the bosom of the sea; There's nothing left to save. Meet you on the other side of the grave.

I should have been Diamond Lil, But I'm a second-hand attraction. I would have learned my lessons, But I never had the class. I could have been poor white trash, But I'm a renegade reactionary: Wary, slightly scary with a heart of glass.
