I Call Him Love

Kathy Troccoli

Some called him a prophet Some called him a saint Some couldn't believe their eyes Or the words he had to say

Some called him crazy Some thought he was strange But I have felt his touch And I'll never be the same

I call him love I call him mercy I called him out of my darkness and pain And he answered my need

I call him love I call him healing He is the one who has filled me with hope And restored life to me, I call him love

Some call him a mystery A power without a face Some feel He's a distant father That they could not embrace But I have felt his touch and I'll never be the same

I call him love I call him mercy I called him out of my darkness and pain And he answered my need

I call him love I call him healing He is the one who has filled me with hope And restored life to me, I call him love

'Cause he reached out to me I'm overwhelmed by the grace I have received

I call him love I call him mercy I called him out of my darkness and pain And he answered my need

I call him love I call him healing He is the one who has filled me with hope And restored life to me, I call him love
