Promise Me Everything

Katra

For every fallen tear there is a broken dream
After every wasted day there comes the night
As the truth becomes a lie, I lose the last sunbeam
And the second wrong makes me feel I'm right

The more I climb to reach the sky, the more I fall An I feel like I'm best at ruining my own life When I'm down and out and standing back against the wall Then please come to me, make it all alright

Promise me everything Give my heart this lie Words to believe in Don't let me die

Promise me love and more As if it was true Something to fight for Promise it's you

Although I am lost and fallen from the grace There's a flame of hope lit somewhere in the dark As a lie becomes the truth maybe I'll find a place Where you come to me, take me to your heart

Promise me everything Give my heart this lie Words to believe in Don't let me die

Promise me love and more As if it was true Something to fight for Promise it's you
