

For All The Wrong Reasons

Kayak

You've been living inside this heart of mine
As if it were your own
You wanted love, while all you needed was (just) time
And I was tired of being alone

I was a fool, and didn't want to see
That the seed of doubt was sown
I was mistaken, and you've been loving me
For all the wrong reasons

Sometimes the truth is just a little hard to face

But there was nowhere I could hide
It kept creeping up on me in many ways
Then came too close to be denied

One of these days I will have set you free
But until the time is right
I'll forget that you've been loving me
For all the wrong reasons
