

Black And White

Keaton Simons

Every day, friends and lovers grow
Like flowers, Make mistakes
Spend your hours livin' it down.
Life's a game,
A journey for us inside out
No doubt no doubt.
But down the road your bound to take a different route,
Where it goes nobody really knows.
I've found in the end
It always comes back around,
Somehow somehow.

I don't know why it has to be
So black and white for you and me
When there's a million colors in between
And we could be anything.
Truth aint always what it seems
And right or wrong lacks depth to me.
Fear is our only enemy
And we could be anything anything.

I can feel the heaviness you keep by your side,
When it's real it feels like it has multiplied,
It's hard to deal
Without a friendly face in sight,
But it's alright it's alright.
Because to grow you've got to be alone sometimes,
In the cold weathering the storm inside.
So you know no matter what it's gonna be fine
Be fine so fine.

I don't know why it has to be
So black and white for you and me
When there's a million colors in between
And we could be anything.
Truth aint always what it seems
And right or wrong lacks depth to me.
Fear is our only enemy
And we could be anything anything.

Well if love is blind how can you read the signs,
And I believe in time we will see
We could be anything.
If the feelings right
It's not so hard to find,
And we can realize
The recipe, we could be anything.
If you love someone
You've got to let them go (got to let them go)
Set them free and trust that they will ebb and flow.

I don't know why it has to be
So black and white for you and me
When there's a million colors in between
And we could be anything.
Truth aint always what it seems
And right or wrong lacks depth to me.

Fear is our only enemy
And we could be anything anything.

I don't know why it has to be
So black and white for you and me
When there's a million colors in between
And we could be anything.
Truth aint always what it seems
And right or wrong lacks depth to me.
Fear is our only enemy
And we could be anything anything.

We could be we could be we could be anything
We could be we could be we could be anything
We could be we could be we could be anything
