

Savannah

Kele

Oh Savannah, you look like your mother
But I did not know her so well
All the photos I kept of her faded
All the memories blend

If there's one lesson this life has taught me
Open your heart, be kind

Oh Savannah, you look like your mother
But I did not know her so well
May you have beauty that launches a fleet
May you have grace at your feet
But will you be brazen or will you be meek?
Which of the paths will you choose?

If there's one lesson this life has taught me
Open your heart, be kind
And let the love flow through your soul
Always

Oh Savannah, you look like your mother
But I did not know her so well
All the photos I kept of her faded
All the memories blend

If there's one lesson this life has taught me
Open your heart, be kind
And let love flow through your soul
Always
Always
