

Where Did Your Love Go

Kellie Pickler

I knew it would happen to my money honey
Gone with the week, you little little drinking, had a bity party
It went down with that tonic water
Became a pain for Sunday afternoon

And I know what happened to the promise you made
As Monday came with the snow cold rain and you never did call me
So I took my teardrops into town
Track you down the hill and straight from you

Where did your love go?
When did you lose it?
Did you even want my heart?
Or just some other part?
So you can use it

Now here we are sitting in your pickup truck
And you won't say nothing, you son of a buck
You're just staring out the window
Where did your love go?

I know what happened to my innocence
It flew off in that summer wind when I laid down with you
And I gave to you the one pure thing
A girl can bring in her first lovers' dream

And I know what happened to the dandelion
Ring you tied on my wrist and now you forgot that, didn't you?
Well it's pressed inside a little pink bible
I got graduate in summer school

Where did your love go?
When did you lose it?
Did you even want my heart?
Or just some other part?
So you can use it

Now here we are sitting in your pickup truck
And you won't say nothing, you son of a buck
You're just staring out the window
Where did your love go?

Now here we are sitting in your pickup truck
And you won't say nothing, you son of a buck
You're just staring out the window
Where did your love go?

Where did your love go?
Where did your love go?
Where did your love go?
