Graveyard

Kelsea Ballerini

I don't wanna be another skeleton in your closet Another rose that you throw, cause you know that it ain't okay Just a name on a stone in a row down the road forgotten Cause I was falling fast, now I'm just a dash between two dates

I don't wanna be another heart in your graveyard In the cold, hard dirt that you throw down I don't wanna watch you drive away in a black car to a new bar

So you can find another hopeless, broken girl in a little black dress And you take her, break her, lay her heart to rest in peace Right here next to me

Maybe I was naive to believe you would never hurt me But now I know why you hide in your darkest suit and shades? You put on a show, so nobody knows your hands and your shoes are dirt Y I guess you don't need a shovel to dig a grave

I don't wanna be another heart in your graveyard In the cold, hard dirt that you throw down I don't wanna watch you drive away in a black car to a new bar

So you can find another hopeless, broken girl in a little black dress And you take her, break her, lay her heart to rest in peace Right here next to me, yeah

You gonna go out one night when you see me out Cause the ghost of a broken heart don't stay six feet down You gonna go out one night when you see me out Cause the ghost of a broken heart don't stay six feet down

So you can find another hopeless, broken girl in a little black dress And you take her, break her, lay her heart to rest in peace Right here next to me

Hopeless, broken girl And you just take her, break her heart Let her rest in peace Right there next to me I don't wanna be another heart I don't wanna be another heart In your graveyard, babe In your graveyard, hey
