

Frozen

Kimberly Caldwell

I'm pulling myself outta the corner you put me in Searching for the light that wouldn't dare come in
I lay here in my tears, wrapped up in these sheets
Avoiding the mirrors so I don't see what you've done to me

And I see your eyes staring at me like nothing (?)

You're so frozen, so unopen, you will not destroy me
Keep on pushing me farther and farther
Fueling my fire, you will not destroy me

What was I thinking when I told you I loved you first
Knowing you don't have it in you to be the man I deserve
Oh sooner than later the season of what I (?)

Will uncover your cold black heart as I watch you melt

I see your eyes staring at me like nothing (?)

You're so frozen, so unopen, you will not destroy me
Keep on pushing me farther and farther
Fueling my fire, you will not destroy me

And I don't need closer from you
I got my life to get back to (?)
And this time it's not for you
