Exiles

King Crimson

Now...in this faraway land Strange...that the palms of my hands Should be damp with expectancy

Spring...and the air's turning mild City lights...and the glimpse of a child Of the alleyway infantry

Friends...do they know what I mean Rain...and the gathering green
Of an afternoon out-of-town

But Lord I had to go

My trail was laid too slow behind me

To face the call of fame

Or make a drunkard's name for me

Though now this other life

Has brought a different understanding

And from these endless days

Shall come a broader sympathy

And though I count the hours

To be alone's no injury...

My home...was a place near the sand Cliffs...and a military band Blew and air of normality
