The Night Watch

King Crimson

Shine, shine, the light of good works shine
The watch before the city gates depicted in their prime
That golden light all grimy now
Three hundred years have passed
The worthy Captain and his squad of troopers standing fast

The artist knew their faces well The husbands of his lady friends His creditors and councillors In armour bright, the merchant men

Official moments of the guild In poses keen from bygone days The city fathers frozen there Upon the canvas dark with age

The smell of paint, a flask of wine And turn those faces all to me
The blunderbuss and halberd-shaft
And Dutch respectability

They make their entrance one by one Defenders of that way of life The redbrick home, the bourgeoisie Guitar lessons for the wife

So many years we suffered here
Our country racked with Spanish wars
Now comes a chance to find ourselves
And quiet reigns behind our doors
We think about posterity again

And so the pride of little men
The burghers good and true
Still living through the painter's hand
