

Open

King Missile

It's time for something more real than all these words
While the least of these are broken and dying
We count the pearls in our purse
It's time to live in love
To live in love

So open up your doors
Let the sun shine out into the night you're hiding from
Let your hearts bleed with love because when all is said and done
Love's the only voice that's heard

With all that we've been given and all we hold to be true
We've thrown away the one key that unlocks the door
We ourselves crawled through
It's time to live in love
To live in love

So open up your doors
Let the sun shine out into the night you're hiding from
Let your hearts bleed with love because when all is said and done
Love's the only voice that's heard
So let your love be heard

Silver and gold have we some
But is that enough to buy a single soul
A ticket to go home
Silver and gold have we some
But is that enough to buy a single soul
Or our own way to the throne