

in a suburban desert a fast food high we swipe at peeling paint swat away flies

the crawling milk-fed squawking cream-filled hominids ids immune to broken to wasted time to bolts of lightning bungee together your body's guards the bloodiest bond blacking out the dark

the darkest flame the darkest waltz a sun burnt snarl thrashing and parched

a singular desire to drive into the dirt no lust, no gluttony w e're free as algae
