

Feels Like the Last Time

Lake Street Dive

Said I'm head over heels
And I'm dying, I'm dying to know
If you feel like you did long ago
'Cause it feels like the last time I fell in love with you

It's those same shudders and chills
Up my spine and down to my toes
But do you feel it, too?
All these years, and I still don't know
Oh, it feels like the last time I fell in love with you

It's that old familiar sense of self-doubt
It's that feast or famine, flooding and drought
Oh, you fooled me once, you fooled me twice
Well, shame on everyone
For letting this fool rap on my window again

They say time, they say time can heal
But my wounds keep opening up for you
Can we still make it right?
Stitch me up and set my bones tonight?
'Cause it feels like the last time
I fell in love with you

May this please be the last time
I fall in love with you
