

Tears of Babylon

Lana Lane

The ship touched down leaving a blue-green haze
Breaking silence all around

Their shining armor set the stars ablaze
As feet of chrome touch the ground

Their final journey done
Their nightmare found
Tears of Babylon
As the ashes fall
Flowers bloom no more
Gone are castle walls

They stand beside a stone once great and tall
Amid dried river bed and streams
Now nothings left but empty water falls
That once bathed many Pharaohs' queens

Their final journey done
Their nightmare found
Tears of Babylon
As the ashes fall
Flowers bloom no more
Gone are castle walls

Inside the ship
They set a course for home
Mourning life's final flame

Far in the distance
Their fate is known
Never finding whose to blame

Their final journey done
Their nightmare found
Tears of Babylon
As the ashes fall
Flowers bloom no more
Gone are castle walls