

He Really Loves You

Larry Norman

He Really Loves You

When are you gonna love him, love him?

He really loves you, yes he really loves you. He really loves you, I know it's true. He really loves you, yes he really loves you. He really loves you, I know it's true.

You're not getting any younger, and time moves on Stop standing in the shadows, start looking for the Son.

Think about the day we met For so long I said that prayer Then you finally bowed your head Sitting in my kitchen chair. And once you walked where Jesus walked But now you've run away.

He really loves you, yes he really loves you. He really loves you, I know it's true. He really loves you, yes he really loves you. He really loves you, I know it's true.

If you don't die once, you're gonna die twice. Obedience is better than sacrifice.

I had a vision near Otsego Gate I saw you in Sud San Duphaey Unborn children weep and wait For that Resurrection Day. The Savior sits in heaven And he's calling out your name.

He really loves you, yes he really loves you. He really loves you, I know it's true.

Well, I love you my brother, so heed this well If you want to go to heaven you got to get past hell.

When are you gonna cross that line? When are you gonna love him? When are you gonna make up your mind When are you gonna love him, love him Cross that line, 'cause he crossed that line for you Cross that line, And if you do the Son will shine on you, yes he will.

He really loves you, yes he really loves you. He really loves you, I know it's true. He really loves you, yes he really loves you. He really loves you, I know it's true.

Stay away from that girl, She's the queen of the rodeo.

Now you're laying on that sandy beach

Lyrics taken from this page