

If the Bombs Fall

Larry Norman

If the Bombs Fall

If the bombs fall, baby I love you,
If they end it all, baby I love you
Through it all, I want you to know I love you.

Silver raindrops falling from on high
While a dark red cloud fills up the sky,
I don't want our love to end this way.

What about the songs we haven't sung?
What about the things we haven't done.
What's the matter with this world today?

Well, If the bombs fall, baby I love you,
If they end it all, baby I love you
Through it all, I want you to know I love you.
You and I are still so very young,
And with love, the best is yet to come,
God has let me choose you - I don't wanna lose you.

Who can say tomorrow will find its way.
Who can say the sun will shine today.
Baby I adore you, that's why I'm living for you.

But if the bombs fall, baby I love you,
If they end it all, baby I love you
Through it all, I want you to know I love you.
And through the years and all the long hard miles,
We'll shed some tears, but we will share the smiles.

Don't cry, I want you to know I love you.
If the bombs fall, baby I love you,
If they end it all, baby I love you
Through it all, I want you to know I love you.
This world of ours been here a long, long time
And the stars above, I love to watch them shine.
I need your love to lead this life of mine.