

Breathe

Laura Marling

You came here to tell me something
I already know
Dark before the dawn is the darkest
That you know
The dark before the storm
Is what leaves me here to breathe
So breathe

Us of constant banging
Throwing fists against the wall
Screaming at the earth for what
It's done to one and all
You came here to tell me something
I already know
Just breathe
Breathe

How cruel I was to you
Cruel things I do
How cruel you are to me
How cruel time can be
Well I wrote you a book
But I left it out in the rain
Left it there to dry
But it got rained on once again
So breathe

How cruel I am to you
How cruel the things I do
How cruel you are to me
How cruel time can be

When you wake you'll know I'm gone
Where I'm going there's no one
So don't follow me
Whatever you may hear or see

When you wake you'll know I'm gone
Where I'm going there's no one
So don't follow me
Whatever you may hear or see
Don't follow me
Whatever you may hear or see
