When Were You Happy? (And How Long Has That Been)

Laura Marling

Hey there new friend across the sea

If you figure things out would you figure in me
Wouldn't it be a thing

To live somewhere quietly where there's a breeze

And there's a reason for us to be

I look at people here in this city and wonder if they're lonely or like me they're not content to live as things are meant to be

When were you happy?
And how long has that been?

Who speaks for them and then again
Who speaks for me?
My vote was never counted, so who upon this earth knows what it is that I believe?
We're all looking for answers where no answers can be found
Or is that a concern of mine
Because I have the time
To question my ground?

Hey there new friend across the sea
Have you figured things out? Would you figure in me?
Hey there new friend across the sea
Have you figured things out? Would you figure in me?

I find the more I think the harder it is for me to breathe When were we happy?
And how long has that been?
