

Somebody's Yesterday

Leigh Nash

Texas is bigger than I remember
The road seems to end in the sky
This drive back home feels like forever
Hoping I'm still on your mind

Outside of Austin at our old apartment
Are you still there all alone?
Then I see you walking with your arms around her
And suddenly Texas is cold

There's no one else to blame
I chose to just walk away
Sometimes a lover discovers who matters too late
Now I've got to learn how to live as somebody's yesterday

Maybe I'll call you, maybe you'll answer
Maybe we'll talk about her
But that won't happen, I'm not gonna call you

We'll never be what we were

There's no one else to blame
I chose to just walk away
Sometimes a lover discovers who matters too late
Now I've got to learn how to live as somebody's yesterday

If yesterday was so bad
Why do we go back over and over again?
If that's all you have
You just stay there and pray someone new walks in

There's no one else to blame
I chose to just walk away
Sometimes a lover discovers who matters too late
Now I've got to learn how to live as somebody's yesterday
Texas is bigger than I remember
