For A Brighter Death

Lethian Dreams

A frail painting is now broken My forgotten dream was lying And I have lost all reasons That made me going on Stains of blood on the purest stone I was waiting for you to come This eternal grey is swallowing me now There's no escape I can see I'm becoming someone else Following the void within How I wish you would be here Hopeless tomorrow Keeping me away from myself For a brighter death I'll leave those lands Will their choir Leading my path to this everlasting grey Where are all this feelings are they gone The colourless shape of my life Still I can't find the strength to go on this way Pieces of me are falling down Melting with the pouring rain Washing away all the traces I could have let in here There's no escape I can see I'm becoming someone else