

Simon

Lifehouse

Catch your breath,
Hit the wall,
Scream out loud,
As you start to crawl,

Back in your cage,
The only place,
Where they will,
Leave you alone,

'Cause the weak will
Seek the weaker until they've broken them,
Could you get it back again?
Would it be the same?
Fulfillment to their lack of strength
At your expense,
Left you with no defense,
They tore it down.

And I have felt the same, as you I've felt the same,
As you I've felt the same

Locked inside,
The only place,
Where you feel sheltered,
Where you feel safe,
You lost yourself,
In your search to find,
Something else to hide behind,

Cause the fearful always preyed upon your confidence,
Did they see the consequence?
They pushed you around?
The arrogant build kingdoms made of the different ones,
Breaking them 'til they've become,
Just another crown,

And I have felt the same, as you I've felt the same,
As you I've felt the same, as you I've felt the same.

Refuse to feel,
Anything at all,
Refuse to slip,
Refuse to Fall,
Can't be weak,
Can't stand still,
You watch your back,
'Cause no one will,

You don't know why I had to go this far,
Traded your worth for these scars,
For you're only Company,
Don't believe the lies that they have told to you,
Not one word was true,
You're alright you're alright
You're all right

And I have felt the same, as you I've felt the same,
As you I've felt the same, as you I've felt the same.