

Gone

Lifetime

believed in you, i believed what you said i believed when you told me you would never change but before like a knock on the door i heard you coming and i played like i wasn't home no need to try and remember why because the good old days weren't always good now that you're gone i'm not so sure but at least i won't wonder anymore you're gone, i know i can't believe in you anymore i can't believe the things i hear it seems that my friends have all disappeared why can't you ever be straight with me? why can't you come back to me? can't stand the way it was.
