Something In The Air

Lila McCann

Out on that river road In a pontiac lit up by the dashboard glow They hold each other close Under a harvest moon Love is about to bloom

There's something in the air tonight Something electric The point where love ignites The center of the heart You never see it comin', no There isn't a warning, no reason, not a sign But you can feel it everywhere There's something in the air

Every tender touch is fire Every single sound is the sound of desire Like an angel's choir Blinded by the sudden flash Together they'll strike the perfect match

There's something in the air tonight Something electric The point where love ignites The center of the heart You never see it comin', no There isn't a warning, no reason, not a sign But you can feel it everywhere There's something in the air

A little luck An act of fate Brought them here Now love can't wait

There's something in the air tonight Something electric The point where love ignites

There's something in the air tonight Something electric The point where love ignites There's something in the air You can feel it everywhere There's something in the air, oh yeah There's something in the air
