

Le chant des sirènes

Lilly Wood & The Prick

Every step we take drives us away
When all we try to do is get much closer
Lost in a blue swamp, soaking wet
Creatures calling out to save remains

Will we drown alone?
Our lungs filled with regrets
Will we drown alone?
Our lungs filled with regrets

Don't bother to take my pain away
We are the only ones to blame
There is a mermaid chase in my head
I am not the one they crave

The winds are telling us a different story
Than the one that we agreed to settle for
The creatures are now shouting names
With no regard to any pain no one to blame

Will we drown alone?
Our lungs filled with regrets
Will we drown alone?
Our lungs filled with regrets

Don't bother to take my pain away
We are the only ones to blame
There is a mermaid chase in my head
I am not the one they crave

Don't bother to take my pain away
We are the only ones to blame
There is a mermaid chase in my head
I am not the one they crave
They crave