

Blessing

London After Midnight

How can I believe in something unseen?
How can I believe in a vision, a dream?

I should have known better than that to count you among my blessings

I should have known better than that to count you among my blessings

I should have known better than that to count you among my blessings

I should have known better than that to count you among my blessings