

When you're hurting just to make it feel
And your World is like a roulette wheel
When your hope is compromised
And focus left you blind
Everything it seems is cloaked in fake surprise
When you're hurting just to make it feel, feel something

When you're holding out for something real
When your memories they refuse to heal
Open your eyes and know we will survive
All of the time we took to to realise
when you're holding out for something real
Keep holding

This decade tastes of apathy
We're staring into history
I'm hurting you, so I can feel alone

When you're throwing back the hands of fate
For legacy to catch the case
The violence in my mind confirms that I'm alive
Never feel defeat, only justified
When you're holding back the hands of time, wish it all away

This decade tastes of apathy
We're staring into history
I'm hurting you, so I can feel alone

This decade tastes of apathy
When you're not the place you want to be
I'm hurting you, so I can feel alone

This decade tastes of apathy
We're staring into history
I'm hurting you, so I can feel alone

This decade tastes of apathy
When you're not the place you want to be
I'm hurting you, so I can feel alone