

Habit

Louis Tomlinson

I always said that I'd mess up eventually
I told you that, so what did you expect from me?
It shouldn't come as no surprise at all
I know you said that you'd give me another chance
But you and I knew the truth of it in advance
That mentally you were already out the door

Never thought that giving up would be so hard
But God, I'm missing you and your addictive heart

You're the habit that I can't break
You're the feeling I can't put down
You're the shiver that I can't shake
You're the habit that I can't break
You're the high I need right now
You're the habit that I can't break

I took some time 'cause I've ran out of energy
Of playing someone I've heard I'm supposed to be
But honestly, I don't have to choose anymore
And it's been ages, different stages
Come so far from Princess Park
I'll always need you
In front of me, in front of me

You're the habit that I can't break
You're the feeling I can't put down
You're the shiver that I can't shake
You're the habit that I can't break
You're the high that I need right now
You're the habit that I can't break

You gave me the time and the space
I was out of control
And I'm sorry I let you down
Guess that I know what I already knew
I was better with you
And I miss you now

You're the habit that I can't break
You're the feeling I can't put down
You're the shiver that I can't shake
You're the habit that I can't break
You're the high that I need right now
You're the habit that I can't break

You're the habit that I can't break
You're the feeling I can't put down
You're the shiver that I can't shake
You're the habit that I can't break
You're the high that I need right now
You're the habit that I can't break
