Your Mind And We Belong Together

I'd like to understand just why I feel like I have been through hell But you tell me I haven't even started yet To live here you've got to give more than you get That I know But they said it's all right I'd like to understand today Then maybe I would know who I was When I was when it was yesterday The seasons and the reasons are on display And I know Oh Oh Oh So many people They just seem to clutter up my mind And if it's mine throw it away Throw it again once for my girl friend So many voices Don't let them stop between my ears But it appears that there they are Though they are wrong ten thousand strong, oh, yeah I'm lockin' my heart in the closet I don't need anyone, oh no no no You find me behind the door

Love

And all of the far-out faces

From long ago, I can't erase this
