

Goodbye

Lyfe Jennings

Sometimes makin up is easier than breakin up
We believe if we just fake it enough
We can trick our selves into believin that we're still in love
But in our harts we know that it's inevitable
Though it's hard to let you go I know I must

Sometimes memories just ain't enough
Sometimes you out grow the ones you love
Sometimes it's none of the above
It's just the fact that people change
No one's to blame
There ain't nothin that stays the same
So we sit around and cry
Because neither one of us wants to be the first to say
Goodbye

Sometimes givin 2nd chances is easier than dealing with the fact that Once the trust is gone you could never get it back
But your holdin on because your afraid of bein alone
So here you are holdin on to somethin thats already gone
And don't act like it's the first time you've heard it in this song
Cause your heart done told you all along

If your momma done showed you right from wrong
No thing should hold you down this long
There's no one to blame nothin stays the same
So we sit around and cry because neither one of us wants to be the first to say goodbye
So let me be the first to say...GOODBYE!
