

Desiderata

Madder Mortem

I open my eyes today to leave the world of dreams behind
We all know the nothing
A hole in our hearts we try to forget or drown in jest and jokes
So I open my eyes today to let myself be torn apart

In the rigid chill of my vow all my dreams will die

My blood is seeded with hateful ghosts
Their clawing hands upon my faults Pleading my guilt as they pull me down into the sea of broken hope

How could I have known?
All my dreams were lies

I know All my dreams were lies
All my dreams have died

Die.