

We All Play the Game

Magnum

Now you've found yourself, can you tell me how you feel?
Well you look so well, everything seems new and real
Can you rise above all the worldly cares you had?
All the foolish thoughts have they really left your head?

Yes, I'd like to see, ooh, if you really know for sure
Are you still convinced, what you had was less before
Will it last for long, you're obsessed by new ideas
There's a change in you, ooh, but you change most every year

Can you stand there and tell me now
It's not only a dream, it's better
It's a part you could play forever

Ooh, we all play the game,
oh, we all play the game
And though we think again, still it will be the same
We play the game, this foolish game

And the search goes on, a never-ending thirst unquenched
What you're looking for, ooh, someone yet has to invent
Does it please you well, did you have to look so hard?
And you travel far, ooh, though the answer's in your heart

Can you stand there and tell me now
It's not only a dream, it's better
It's a part you could play forever

We all play the game, ooh, we all play the game
And though we think again, still it will be the same

We play the game, this foolish game

We all play the game, oh, we all play the game
And though we think again, still it will be the same, ooh - oh
